

YANKS BEAT OFF GERMAN COUNTER-ATTACKS

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE BEST NEWS to come out of China in a blue-moon is the assurance from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government that a settlement of its quarrel with the Chinese Communists is in prospect—and that there will be no civil war!

Such a peace would be a godsend not only to China but to the United Nations. To understand the full import of this you must know that the evil spirit of fratricidal strife long has been hanging over that tortured country. When I was in Chungking early this year observers could see only one outcome—a terrible civil war which would come at the end of the Chino-Jap struggle, and might break out before then.

Background for this gloomy view was the fact that there had been many bloody outbursts in the protracted political strife between General Chiang's government and the Communists, who have been fighting for recognition of their party. The dangers have been multiplied by the peculiar circumstance that the Chinese armed forces have included several strong Communist armies under their own generals, an agreement having been made to bury the political hatchet temporarily in the interests of the war effort against the Japs. The latest rupture in the "United Front" was only last month when the provincial authorities of Shantung charged that Communist forces attacked the state police.

NOW COMES Chungking's prediction that peace is in sight. More to the point, Generalissimo Chiang has appointed two Communist leaders, General Chou En-Lai and T'ung Pi-Wu, to a committee of 60 which has been assigned to do the ground-work for a constitutional government. General Chou is out-ranked in the Communist party only by General Mao Tse-Tung, Communist army commander. Of course, there's still a load of dynamite in the situation, but the Chinese home-front seems to have made a fair start in pulling out of a nasty position.

I had the privilege of meeting General Chou, who was stationed in Chungking as liaison between the Communists and the government. He assured me that his party was not working to supplant the government, along with the Kuomintang. He declared there was no link with Moscow.

My guess is that Chou will play a highly important role, and if that's so it is a happy circumstance that he and Chiang Kai-Shek are friends. Chou is a cultured man of wide education. He looks to be in his sunny forties. He has a striking personality and incidentally is one of the handsomest Chinese I've ever encountered.

The general comes of an aristocratic official family. He began his revolutionary career when a youth in school in Tientsin. Later he studied in France, and became one of the earliest members of the Chinese Communist party. When Generalissimo Chiang was kidnapped by rebels in Sian in 1936 it was General Chou who was instrumental in securing his release. Later Chou negotiated for the reconstruction of the United political front on an anti-Japanese basis.

14-Year Old Veteran Of Pacific Battles, Wife, 13, to Part

(By Associated Press)
DENVER, Oct. 22.—Tommy was an awful pretty boy and he kept telling me about his experiences in the Marines and how he wanted to have someone to belong to—

That's why she married the 14-year-old war veteran, Mrs. Thomas B. Harris—who is only 13—told interviewers last night. The story of the boy's adventures with the Navy and Marines and his venture into matrimony came to light when his mother, Mrs. Helen Harris, filed an annulment suit.

VETERAN RED TROOPS JOIN CRIMEA FIGHT

Russian Vanguard Only 18 Miles From Krivoi Rog On Dnieper

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Red army threw tested veterans of the battle of Stalingrad into its bold drive to isolate some half a million Germans in the Crimea and the Dnieper bend today. A Reuters dispatch placed the Russian vanguards only 18 miles from Krivoi Rog, iron ore city in the bend.

The Germans themselves acknowledged in their daily communiqués that Soviet attacks are boiling over into additional sectors adding these assaults were particularly strong north of the sea of Azov.

A Russian landing effort on the east coast of the Crimea also was reported in the German communiqué, which said the attempt was made with weak forces yesterday and was repelled.

The Reuters dispatch reporting the new advance toward Krivoi Rog said "the German air force no longer has enough fighter planes to prevent the attacks of the Soviet air force."

At Melitopol, the Red army gained more ground and now commands three quarters of the city's area. The Germans consider Melitopol the key to the Crimea and are fighting desperately for it and flanking reinforcements into the struggle.

A dispatch to the Russian newspaper Izvestia said Melitopol was ablaze and the beautiful orchard country around it ruined by the machines of war.

A Moscow broadcast depicted German resistance at Melitopol as "showing signs of giving way after well over a week of battle."

German positions north of Krivoi Rog have lost all semblance of a line and the Nazis are fighting hastily improvised actions from first one point and then another, dispatches asserted.

Red army spearheads were pointing also toward a junction with Soviet troops storming Melitopol and also in the direction of the Black sea port of Nikolayev at the mouth of the Bug river, through which passes the last escape railway from the German garrisons in the Crimea.

Capture of Melitopol would render untenable the position of some 500,000 Nazi troops crowded into the Dnieper bend.

WELLS CONCLUDES LECTURES TONIGHT

Talking on Hitler and Ghandi, Charles A. Wells, author and traveler, called Hitler "the horrible example of the evil way men can use the law which God provided for good men if good men do not use it themselves first."

"Hitler is the product of a perverted divine law," Wells asserted, "the law of losing oneself, taught by Jesus as an opportunity of gaining miracle powers. Hitler convinced the German people that he had lost himself in the cause for saving them."

Wells described the many ways in which Hitler continues to delude the German people into believing he has dedicated his life to their cause.

Wells commended both Hitler and Stalin on their rigid enforcement of prohibition, not on any moral grounds, but on the grounds of simple efficiency. "How sad God must feel to see his churches destroyed, his people persecuted and his laws disobeyed in these countries, but how infinitely sadder he must feel to know that the democratic civilizations while fighting

Salem Residents To Register Next Week For Ration Book 4

Residents of Salem will register for War Ration book No. 4 at the elementary schoolhouses on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

One person may obtain copies of Book 4 for the entire family by filling out a form similar to the one reproduced above and which will be available at the schoolhouse.

Hours of registration are 1:30 to 5 p. m. on the three days and Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 p. m. ration board officials announced today.

Persons are asked to register alphabetically as near as possible, according to the following schedule:

Monday, A through F, Tuesday, G through P, Wednesday, Q through Z.

Registrants must take with them the War Ration Books 3 for every member of the family for whom they are applying for Book 4.

Book 4 will be issued to members of the armed forces who are eligible to obtain Book 3, i. e. those who regularly need ration stamps to buy rationed foods. Such members of the armed forces may obtain Book 4 if their status has not changed.

Schools are being asked to distribute the new book because there was insufficient time between the completion of the mailing of Book 3 and the start of registration.

With all of the endeavor, campaign leaders believe some people who want to give may be missed. Any who are missed may call Mrs. Elizabeth Baker at the Business Bureau office, Phone 4788, and she will see that someone contacts the prospect. Or the contribution may be mailed to Mrs. Baker, who is secretary of the Community Chest.

Chairman Miller reminded captains and team workers of the final meeting at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the Memorial building. The campaign will close with reports submitted at that time and this also will be the occasion for the reorganization of the Community Chest council for the coming year.

Figures submitted this morning to Chairman T. E. Miller by team captains totaled $26,945.70 in the quest for $40,666 for Salem's Community War Chest.

This is 66 per cent of the goal, with three more days to go.

All of the big contributions in sight already have been reported, Miller said, as he warned that much more work is to be done if the goal is reached. All of the team workers still have many prospects to see and much territory to cover, but they were plugging away at the job, determined to finish it by the first of the week.

Fifth Army In Close Pursuit Of Nazi Units

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 22.—Pursuing the retreating enemy too closely to permit him to establish new defense positions, American troops of the Fifth army captured the important road junction town of Alife in a 10-mile advance and beat off a furious German counter-attack, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said today.

The town of Piedimonte D'Alife near Alife also fell before the American assault while on the Fifth army's left flank British troops beat off a massive German attack aimed at Cancelli on the north bank of the Volturno eight miles in from the sea.

Allied fighters and fighter-bombers swept over the battle area in force, bombing and machine gunning.

American Warhawks, supporting the operations of Yugoslav partisans, intercepted a formation of six German Stukas southeast of Zara and shot down all of them in the first air battle by Americans to stop the murderous and heretofore unopposed German bombing attacks on Yugoslav villages.

For good measure, the Warhawks also found three small enemy ships off the Yugoslav coast and hit them all with bombs, and attacked the harbor of Split where they set a 5-foot coastal vessel ablaze.

Still other American planes attacked shipping in Albanian waters, and Lightnings completed the day's activity over the Balkans by returning to Skopje in Yugoslavia to bomb that key railway junction between Belgrade and Athens.

BRICKER PLANS CAPITAL TALK

Has Invitation to Speak At Lincoln Day Meeting On Feb. 12

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Don Power, executive secretary to Ohio's Gov. John W. Bricker, told Buckeye Republican congressmen that Bricker would visit the capital shortly to address them and GOP party leaders, probably in an opening meeting.

He said no definite date had been set although Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Trenton, O., reported Bricker would be invited to speak at a Lincoln day meeting on Feb. 12.

Wendell Wilkie's recent appearance here intensified agitation among Ohio members of Congress to bring Bricker for a major address that might put him formally in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Wilkie, the nominee in 1940, spoke before a Republican meeting sponsored by the 78 club, made up of new members of Congress.

The question of the governor's plans cropped up last night at a caucus of the 29 Ohio Republicans of the house, called by Jenkins, dean of the delegation.

Some Ohioans—particularly those urging an early appearance of the governor in Washington—are anxious for him to undertake an aggressive campaign for the nomination. The house members are ready to support him wholeheartedly but are refraining from open discussion until he removes any doubts as to his intentions.

They recalled that Bricker had said little about national politics since an interview at the Republican post-war conference at Mackinac Island several weeks ago. Even then, he did not disclose his plans, but his assertion that he was not ready to make a statement led some supporters to believe that he would become an avowed candidate soon.

Knights of Columbus Rally At Leetonia

Approximately 25 knights from Salem attended a Knights of Columbus membership rally in Leetonia last night where several state and district officers spoke.

Rev. Fr. William O'Donnell, of Cleveland, state chaplain, told of his stay several years ago in Japan, and discussed Columbianism. Other speakers included State Deputy Edward McHugh of Cleveland; District Deputies Robert Tubbs of Salem, and Frank O'Hanlon of East Liverpool; Rev. Fr. J. Richard Gaffney of Salem; Rev. Fr. William Maund of Leetonia; and Rev. Fr. William Maxwell of Dunbar, Ohio.

A meeting for Salem, East Palestine and Leetonia councils will be held at East Palestine in November, officers announced.

Installation of Salem and Leetonia officers will be held at the local K. of C. hall Nov. 8. Grand Knight Ralph Whitehead of the Salem council and other officers will be inducted.

With a quota of $1450, more than $1500 had been contributed Friday morning, the chairman said. While practically all of the larger donations from individuals and organizations have been received, only about half of the house-to-house canvass has been completed.

The latter part of the campaign is well under way, in charge of the following workers: Mrs. Carol Davis, Mrs. Elsie Rose, Mrs. Mary Frances Morris, Mrs. Esther Holland, Mrs. Lillian Weikart, Mrs. Elsie Woods, Mrs. Helen Esther Haller, Mrs. Virginia Ginter, Mrs. John Lippert, Mrs. Wilma Rose, Misses Martina Colazzi and Bernice Gaughan.

WED SAY IT TO THEIR FACES

According to roundabout reports of what our British cousins are saying about their United States relatives, in connection with the current fad of frank speaking, restraint on this side of the Atlantic apparently is proving a handicap. Not only do Britons suspect our post-war intentions of being bad, but they are laying it on thick and heavy about the way we are waging the war. Speaking frankly, our cousins think we're a mess; that is, some of them do.

Others are inclined toward a kinder appraisal. They see some things they like very much and some things they could improve, if given a chance, which they know they aren't going to get, so they don't worry about it. In this, they are like most Americans, who neither despise the British nor find them without fault but try to take them as they come, without oversimplifying their national nature by generalizations. Then there are on both sides, of course, those strange characters who can see no flaws whatever, who admire everything British, or everything American, and despise everything that isn't. They are not to be taken seriously, except as they fit into the general picture of a really amazing situation existing between two great nations.

That is the situation that enables each to speak frankly about the other in wartime when all international relations are more than ordinarily ticklish. Literally, Americans and Britons are saying nothing about each other they wouldn't say to their faces, which always has been the mark of friendship and at this juncture is a stirring tribute to the efficacy of a free press in the preparation of human beings for the truths all of them ultimately must hear.

WHO PAYS?

There can be no quarrel over any measure to restrain inflation. There can be, however, a legitimate free-for-all over measures which are supposed to restrain inflation but don't.

Whatever President Roosevelt chooses to say in his message to congress on the controversial subject of subsidies, the issue lies between those who see magic in them and those who don't. The latter insist that payment of public funds in the form of subsidies that don't accomplish their purpose is a breach of faith with the present and future generations. They are right.

They go into the argument, furthermore, with the advantage of history on their side. The historical record of experience with subsidies offers slight encouragement for their cause. Ultimately, the cost tends to become prohibitive and the consequences insignificant. Perhaps in the United States under the auspices of the planners of the New Era and More Abundant Life things will be different; congress remains open to conviction but not eager to affirm. Somebody always pays, and congressmen who haven't forgotten what the people back home were saying a few weeks ago are reluctant to tell voters that they must foot the bill to conceal the fact that the cost of living always goes up in wartime.

THERE WILL BE WORSE DAYS

The news-gathering enterprise which is behind the relaying of observations on German conditions via Sweden can be thanked for the disclosure that on last Tuesday Germans had their most dismal day of the war. They were informed officially that their army had lost command of the situation on the Russian front; the Russians were breaking through.

They knew also, though unofficially, that the air forces of Great Britain and the United States were capable of bombing at will any target within flying range and that the range is being increased. They knew that their own air force, despite its still tremendous capacity for fighting, has lost its capacity for bombing and does not even have enough fighting capacity to save Germany from piecemeal destruction.

They knew their submarines were being fought to a standstill in the Atlantic. They knew their resistance in Italy was on the pattern of fight-and-fall-back. They knew about trouble in the Balkans. They knew that in North Africa, in England, in the Middle East and in the United States powerful forces awaited the right moment to pounce on their beleaguered armies.

There will be worse days for the members of the super-race than last Tuesday.

WHOOFS FOR OREGON

We hope there is no connection whatever between the war and the announcement by Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees that he would rather live in Oregon in the summer with his wife and family than hold down second base for the world's champions.

This just happens to be one of those refreshingly unexpected turns of fate that give zest and spice to living. Just about every baseball player, amateur or professional, who isn't already playing with the Yankees would give a sore arm to land a berth with the big team. It would mean good money, good living, fame and a chance to meet some of the best people. It would be a chance to walk in the shadow of immortals like Babe Ruth. It would bring bright lights, stories in the newspapers and an assorted lot of the prerogatives of fame.

It would mean playing alongside some of the best men in the game—stars like Joe Gordon and Bill Dickey, except that Gordon would rather live in Oregon in the summertime and Dickey is thinking of staying home in Little Rock, Ark., next year to join the civil air patrol. Whoops for Oregon. With reservations, whoops for Arkansas.

If I had to pass a law, every labor organization would be required to make a public accounting of its funds and would be required to elect officers by secret ballot at stated intervals not exceeding two years.—WLB Chairman William H. Davis.

FAR EAST COORDINATION

CHUNGING, Oct. 22.—Predictions of closely coordinated action against Japan by Britain, the United States and China were voiced by the Chungking press today as Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten returned to India after a series of talks here with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and British and American military men.

The general tenor of the comment stirred by the visit of the new Allied commander for Southeast Asia was "reflected in the Chinese army organ, Sao Tang Pao, which said:

"We shall soon see on the battlefields the decisions reached in Chungking."

The paper went on to suggest the possibility of a "gigantic pincer movement against Burma" in which, it said, China will play an important part.

Sitting in with Mountbatten and Chiang at the latter's country retreat near the capital were Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, chief of staff of Allied forces in China, and other American, British and Chinese officials.

Mountbatten, who was named at the Quebec conference of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to head Allied forces for the budding offensive in Southeast Asia, reached Chungking Oct. 16 from New Delhi, and left Wednesday to return to India.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Food Facts Are Often Distorted

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MAN HAS A tendency to take a truth and exaggerate certain parts of it until it becomes for all practical purposes an untruth. The principle is illustrated in the over-emphasis given the use of vegetables.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ble juices during the last few years by health food cafeterias, ideas that vegetable juices constitute a tumor treatment, and other half-baked ideas.

The plain facts are—as anyone can tell you who has ever tried them, unless he is a plain crank—that raw vegetables are less digestible than cooked vegetables. Furthermore, one of the principal advantages of vegetables is that they furnish roughage, which advantage vanishes when you use the juices, and the vegetable bulk contains a great deal of solid nourishment not found in the juices.

If someone could just get together a group of food faddists and get them photographed, it would go far towards dispelling the theories they stand for. Most of them are physical wrecks. Of course, they say that the reason they have to eat a special kind of diet is that their constitutions are so weak, but the fact is their constitutions are weak because they eat the kind of hay they do.

Food Faddists
I know a fellow who believed that the only healthy food was peanuts. How he got in that frame of mind, I don't know. It wouldn't seem natural for the creator of the universe to plan the universe on that basis and then make the places where peanuts grow so few and far between. Well, if he was an example of peanuts as an exclusive diet, he was a misfit—he was a physical wreck.

Unscientific Claims
The point of these remarks is the increase in the number of raw vegetable bars in all our cities where claims are made for vegetables that are utterly unscientific and result not in good health, but bad health. It's all right to say that the wild animals eat them raw, but you are not a wild animal and your digestive system has become conditioned for centuries to having your vegetables cooked, which breaks up the cellulose, gives the digestive juices a chance and suits your nutritional demands just as well as the juice.

Then I hear that a combination of raw spinach juice, raw cucumber juice, raw carrot juice and raw beet juice is harmful. That spinach contains oxalic acid and this renders the calcium in the body useless. The fact is that the infinitesimal amount of oxalic acid contained in spinach is eliminated by the kidneys pronto, and the calcium goes on just the same. What possible harm could the raw juices of such perfectly good vegetables as spinach, carrots, beets and cucumbers do?

Verily, a little learning is a dangerous thing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

K. G.: Will you kindly write an article on the function of the adrenal gland, and how it should be treated. Any connection with arthritis?

Answer: That is a large order to answer. There are two parts to the adrenal gland. One part is the substance from which we get adrenalin, and it mostly exercises control over the circulation. The other part is connected with the functions of the pituitary and the gonads and we don't know so much about that. However, none of them have any connection with arthritis.

M. G.: Are surface veins on the thighs made worse by exercise and golf and tennis?

Answer: Yes, I believe they are, but then they get worse anyway and you might as well have the fun of the exercise.

U. S. Flier Barely Ducks Shells Fired By Soldiers Below

(By Associated Press)

WITH THE U. S. FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 3.—(Delayed)—Ducking an American mortar shell in mid-air gave Lieut. D. R. Garrels of Diller, Neb., a bigger thrill than dodging German flak.

The odd adventure befell the 23-year-old invader pilot as he returned across the Volturno river battle line.

"We just bombed and strafed German road targets a couple of miles the other side of the river," he said. "I had pulled up at about 450 miles an hour and was only about 500 feet off the ground when I saw a flash from the other side of the river where our troops were at that time."

"Then suddenly I saw a black mortar shell hurtling toward me. It was only about 100 feet ahead and 20 feet to the right—just barely off my course."

"It was right on top of me and I did what I could but if it had been a few feet to the left I would have run right into it. It ripped over my plane and landed down among the Germans where the guy who fired it meant it to go.

"Boy, if I had caught that one there wouldn't have been enough left of my plane to make a jigsaw puzzle."

Cages of planes being accidentally or intentionally knocked down by mortar or artillery fire are extremely rare, although some enemy aircraft have been caught taking off from a field as it was being brought under American artillery fire. Our tanks caught a few on the wing, too, in Tunisia.

"When a plane runs into a mortar or artillery shell in the air there generally won't be any people left in it in shape to talk about the experience," one flier said.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The resignation of Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown in favor of his business-trained, sharp-minded general manager, Chester Bowles, caused a nary a rustle of ration stamps—a far cry from the flare-ups that accompanied previous OPA shifts. President Roosevelt is expected to nominate Bowles within a day or two.

Bowles has been doing the job behind the scenes for the past month and Brown said it was a good one. Congress had decreed that there must be more business and less theory in the OPA and Bowles steadily appointed brass tacks business men to key positions in accordance with that edict. He will know how well he has pleased Congress during the expected battle over granting of food subsidies to keep prices down—a program advocated by the administration and frowned on by the congressional farm bloc.

MARITIME COMMISSION

The house small business committee has renewed its ardent pleas in behalf of the little men of industry, asking Maritime commission chairman land to explain what is to be done with surplus commission property after the war. The committee, which hears admiralty land today, fears indiscriminate dumping of surplus property, endangering the domestic market.

WAR CONTRACTS

Undersecretary of War Patterson and Comptroller General Warren can agree on how much say the army should have in settling war contracts. Their disagreement is currently being aired in hearings before the house military committee on legislation to settle the issue. Patterson insists that war agency officials should have final authority. Warren insists that the army is wasting money and his accounting office should be the brake.

POSTWAR

The senate looked forward to debate next week on the foreign policy declaration which emerged from the foreign relations committee as a promise of United States cooperation in preserving of the post-war peace and the prevention of aggression. Passage was predicted but strong opposition was expected from some senators who feel that no declaration should be made at this time.

Ingrid Bergman Not Showy Type Movie Actress Off Screen

BY ROSALIND SHAFFER

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22.—Ingrid Bergman is the least showy star the screen has had in many a moon. While on the screen, she has glamor, in real life she is a pastel type who would attract no notice in a crowd.

What she has to sell is her acting, and a certain fortunate set of photographic planes in her face which the camera much prefers to beauty. That she has plenty emotional content, professionally, her fans are well aware, as are her friends.

Bergman likes people, is vivacious. She talks easily, probably due to the exhaustive language study she had as a young girl in Sweden, which gives her a sureness about her use of English.

There is a thread of pixie in her fact that takes advantage of the fact that her lack of sensational appearance allows her to go unrecognized.

Distinguishing Mouth

When she was working on "Saragatunga Trunk" she went in to the lunch room to be accosted by one of the stenographers, who looked at her and said "Do I know you? Are you one of the haidressers?"

Her mouth is her most unusual and distinguishing feature. A slight protrusion of her two front teeth gives a liveliness to her expression, just as the tilt of a pug nose lends vivacity.

The mouth is very small from corner to corner, quite unlike the prevalent screen mode for expansive mouths with full display of sets of beautiful teeth, of which Joan Crawford and Jeanette MacDonald are exponents. The lips are wide, however, both upper and lower, so much so as to be almost artificial in effect, even when bare of makeup.

This long description of the mouth kissed by Leslie Howard, Spencer Tracy, Gary Cooper, Humphrey Bogart and Charles Boyer in fervid love scenes, is warranted by the belief that many without analyzing it have noted that she has an unusual mouth. It may set a new vogue in how to make up the mouth, and should be a lesson to any girl who worries because one of her features is not quite in line with ordinary standards of beauty.

Bergman was a finished actress from the Royal Swedish academy, and from starring roles in Swedish films, when she first came to Hollywood.

Her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, and her five-year-old daughter, Pia, form the background of her life away from the studio.

Sorosis and Music Study Clubs Hear Book Review

COLUMBIANA, Oct. 22.—The annual joint meeting of Sorosis and Columbiana Music Study clubs was held at the Grace Reformed church Wednesday evening with about 50 in attendance.

Mrs. Charles Miller, president of Sorosis club, welcomed the guests and members and Mrs. Charles Esenwein, president of Music Study club, responded. Mrs. Ed. Bierman, chairman of the program committee, introduced Mrs. Guy Byers of Salem who gave an excellent review of "Journey Among Warriors" by Eve Curie.

Lunch was served following, the buffet table laid with white linen and centered with flowers and candles. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Esenwein poured.

The next meeting of Sorosis will be at the home of Mrs. Ralph Lower. The next meeting of Music club will be the annual guest night at Valley Golf club Nov. 10.

The Queen Esther class of the Grace Reformed church will meet at the home of Mrs. James Sensenbaurer at 8 tonight. This will be the combined meetings for September and October.

Chaplain W. R. Gobrecht, former pastor of Grace Reformed church, who has been ill for several weeks, has been transferred from Staten Island, N. Y., to the Fletcher General hospital, Cambridge, O., where his condition remains about the same.

New officers of Benjamin Firestone post, American Legion, will be installed Monday evening by Everett J. Rich, Salem, past county commander.

New B or C Applications Should Be Filed Early

Motorists with B or C ratings expiring before the expiration date because of the recent gasoline cut should apply as soon as possible within 30 days before their supply of coupons are exhausted. It was announced today by Vincent S. Bishop, OPA district mileage rationing officer.

Application form R-535 revised should be used by persons asking for additional mileage as a result of the gasoline cut. This is the type of form now used for original applications or applications involving any changes in the driver's needs. Bishop emphasized that applications for additional gas will not be accepted by the boards on the customary R-543 renewal form. The R-535 forms can be obtained from plant transportation committees and War Price and Rationing boards.

Her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, and her five-year-old daughter, Pia, form the background of her life away from the studio.

Rural Homemakers Project For Year Concerns Clothing

Rural homemakers throughout Columbiana county will study "Care and Repair of Clothing" as their major home extension project this winter, according to Erma Ramsey, home demonstration agent.

The slogan is "Take Care of What You Have."

The project as planned by the Columbiana County Home Extension council will include three series of meetings. The first one on care of rayon and cotton clothing, the second on repair of clothing, and the third on care of woolen clothing.

Wednesday, Oct. 27, Miss Edith Berry, clothing specialist from Ohio State university, will meet with leaders from near Lisbon, who are being selected to help teach this project. Four or five other training meetings will be held during the second week in November for leaders in other parts of the county. These district training meetings are being set up to save any distant driving for all leaders.

Following these training meetings leaders will set up local meetings so that all women in the vicinity who are interested in learning more about the care of clothing will be welcome to attend.

Any rural women's organizations that would like to take up the study of care and repair of clothing should get in touch with Miss Ramsey before Oct. 28 for more information or see one of their local home council members. More meetings within a township are being planned so any women wanting to attend a meeting can do so without going too great a distance.

Seven hundred thousand people in Britain lost their clothing books and asked for new ones in the first year of clothes rationing.

Theatre

Showing at the State tonight and Saturday is "Watch on the Rhine." The setting is the gracious Washington home of Fanny Farrelly, wealthy society woman and widow of a Supreme court justice. To the peace of this home and the security of the Capital comes her daughter, Sara-Muller, her German husband, Kurt, and their three children. A mood of wholesome joyousness is beautifully evoked in the arrival of the refugees, while the picture skillfully sketches in the vague, disturbing elements of conflict and developing crisis. There is the mystery of Kurt Muller, a sick and weary man; there are the children who, in their bits of conversation reveal the complete lack of that carefree life which is associated with childhood; and there's Count de Brancovis, a house guest, whose curiosity regarding Kurt is inordinate.

A double feature, "The West Side Kid" and a western thriller, "The Law Rides Again," will be at the Grand tonight and Saturday.

LEETONIA TO VOTE ON SCHOOL LEVY

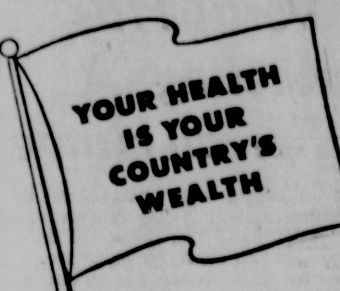

LEETONIA, Oct. 22.—A three-mill operating levy to provide funds for the maintenance and operation of Leetonia and Washingtonville schools for another five years will be voted on by residents of the Leetonia exempted village school district in the election Tuesday, Nov. 2.

"Because the tax rate is now 10 mills instead of the former 15 mill limitation this outside levy is the only way the district has of raising funds for plant maintenance," school officials said "and its continuation is of the utmost importance to the school system."

School authorities emphasized the fact that this is not a new or additional tax, but merely a continuation of a levy that is already in effect.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"You were absolutely correct in making the statement you did, George...not a drop of whiskey has been distilled in this country in over a year."

"That's what I told the boys down at the lodge, Judge, but they were so surprised I thought maybe I was wrong."

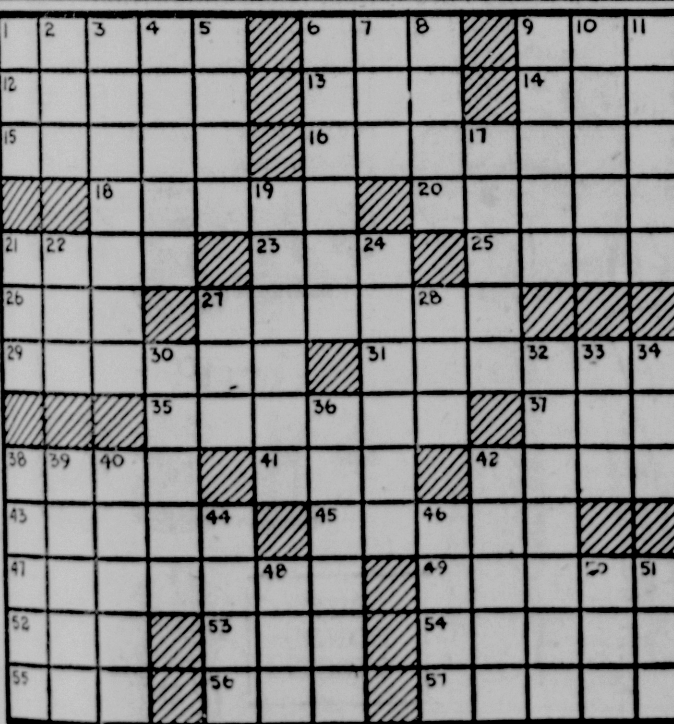

"No you weren't, George. The truth of the matter is that a year before Pearl Harbor, the beverage distilling industry voluntarily offered its facilities to the government. Many companies started to produce alcohol for war purposes almost immediately. And just as soon as the government's requirements increased, the distilling facilities of the entire industry were converted 100% to the production of war-alcohol and nothing else. As a matter of fact, the beverage distilling industry is producing about half of the government's needs for this vital war material. And that's a 24 hour a day, 7 day a week job, George."

"I'm glad I told you about my talk with Sam, Judge. You've given me a lot more facts on that subject."

Advices Hog Farmers

COLUMBIA, Oct. 22 — Howard Davidson, Ohio State university husbandry specialist, warned Ohio farmers today not to sell their hogs too soon lest they kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

"Geese are not the only layers of golden eggs. Swine with proven records of producing and raising large litters of pigs are much better bets for pork production than are gilts of unknown ancestry," Davidson remarked in reporting "farmers have been getting out of the pork producing end of their business too fast."

$12,000 Fire Truck Bond Issue Planned In Green Township

A $12,000 bond issue will be presented Green township voters at the Nov. 2 election to finance the cost of a fire engine and building.

Recent formation of a volunteer fire department, sponsored by an organization of towns people with 50 members, is the result of township residents' need for fire protection.

Until formation of the volunteer group the district has no organized fire protection, even though it is one of the most prosperous rural communities in eastern Ohio.

Officers of the fire department organization are: President, Charles Maxwell; vice president, Ralph Dressel; fire chief, B. E. Cronk, first assistant chief, Perry Cook; second, Raymond Rhodes.

Captain, Joseph Redinger; lieutenant, Myron Griffith; secretary, Fred Puttkamer; treasurer, Robert Calvin.

The men have been trained in part by the Canfield fire department in the use and maintenance of equipment and by Civilian Defense corps. Neighboring departments have been helpful in training, advisory and organization capacities.

Interest of the township residents in the project is evidenced by the fact that 897 voters, more than ever participated in a regular township election, signed the petition last spring asking township trustees to support the movement and to aid in furnishing part of the equipment.

The firemen's association recently conducted a scrap drive, netting more than 60 tons of metal, and held a benefit lawn festival and entertainment which netted $440.

Powerful British Searchlight Hunts Out Nazi U-Boats

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 22.—One of the big secrets of the battle of the Atlantic against the U-boats has at last been revealed—the million candle-power searchlights carried by Royal Air Force coastal command planes which turn night into day over big stretches of the ocean, wiping out the undersea prowler's "refuge" hours of darkness formerly used for essential surfacing to recharge their batteries.

Use of the "weapon" which had been kept secret for more than a year, means the submarines either have to risk the glare of the searchlight to recharge—which must be done on the surface—or attempt it by daylight when they also are likely to be spotted and bombed.

The searchlights were so successful that on their first tryout they spotlighted two Nazi submarines, which were attacked immediately under favorable circumstances.

A U-boat may be cruising along on the surface in the dark, with no warning that an Allied plane is closing in until it suddenly is engulfed in a great white glare of light and a shower of bombs. This is credited with being an important factor in sapping the morale of the U-boat crews.

The technique has been worked out by specially trained "Leigh light squadrons," named after the originator, 46-year-old Wing Commander Humphrey Devereigh Leigh, World war I naval pilot—whose "hush hush" receipt of the high order of the British empire in the new years' honors list probably is explained by today's disclosures.

Great Britain to Expand Civil Aviation After War

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Lord Beaverbrook disclosed today that Great Britain has an "extensive and complete" plan for post-war civil aviation ready to present to an international conference.

The publisher, lately appointed lord privy seal, told the house of lords this plan was adopted at a recent empire air conference in London and awaited only the approval of the Dominion governments.

Beaverbrook has been entrusted by Prime Minister Churchill with the direction of Britain's air transport policy.

He envisaged forces of 2,000 airplanes engaged in civil aviation in Great Britain after the war. He remarked, however, that this estimate—which would be four times the number of commercial planes used in the United States before the war—"will not afford a great basis for production of aircraft after the war."

The first consumers' cooperative bank in Denmark was formed in 1866.

5 OHIO POST-WAR ROAD JOBS READY

Government Approves Projects Affecting Six Big Communities

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—The Public Roads administration has authorized Ohio's state highway department to proceed with plans for five major post-war projects involving more than $30,000,000 worth of construction, Highway Director Hal Sours reported today.

By implication, the administration approved the projects themselves although formal application to proceed with construction must be made after plans are complete and presumably after the war ends, Sours said.

The department still is awaiting PRA action on requests to start surveys and plans for two other important post-war proposals.

The block of seven projects, Sours said, would require construction expenditures of approximately $30,000,000, to be financed jointly with federal and state funds. They are designed to relieve traffic congestion in and between Ohio metropolitan centers.

Cost Is Shared
Preliminary surveys and drafting of plans for the five approved projects will cost approximately $300,000. Sours said this expense is to be shared equally by the federal agency and the state.

Communities affected by the five programs include Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron, Columbus, Lima and Mansfield. Authorization to start plans still is awaited on two projects in the Cleveland area, Sours said. PRA "definitely has not rejected them."

Sours thus summarized tentative plans for the five projects:
Dayton-Cincinnati — Widening and re-locating U. S. Route 25 between Dayton and Cincinnati, linking the artery with highway improvements already completed or under construction in the Lockland district.

Columbus—Construction of a new Sandusky street bridge; a grade separation project.
Akron—Re-location and improvement of State Route 18 through and near Akron.

Lima—Relocation and improvement of State Route 18 through near Akron.

Lima—Relocation and improvement of U. S. Routes 39 and 25 in and around Lima, described by Sours as "a sort of belt line to relieve traffic congestion in Lima."

Under Consideration
Mansfield—Rebuilding of U. S. Route 42 from the Richland-Morrow county line to a point east of Mansfield; a grade separation, either overhead or a clover leaf where Routes 42 and 30 meet near Mansfield.

The two Cleveland projects still under consideration by PRA are: Lakeland Route—extension of this artery skirting Lake Erie from Bratenahl village east to Painesville to relieve congestion on U. S. Route 20.

Broadway relief project — construction of a new route paralleling Broadway street from Warner road, Newburgh, northwest to downtown Cleveland, linking with the present Willow Freeway near Fleet street.

Sours said the government still must determine on what basis post-war highway projects are to be financed. Under tentative plans, he said, primary projects would be financed 75 per cent with federal funds and 25 per cent with state money.

'44 'Gas' Prospects For Autoists Dim

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—American motorists probably will have no further cuts in gasoline this year, but the prospects for 1944 are not so bright, Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies said today.

He told the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, the need for increasing production of aviation and all-purpose military gasoline makes a reduction in civilian automotive fuel next year a "considerable possibility."

"There have been charges that the British have been hoarding their oil resources, thus making it necessary for the United States to draw inordinately upon its reserves," he said.

"The truth is that American and British oil resources have been employed jointly from the beginning of hostilities. It is true that the use of Middle Eastern oil was restricted somewhat during the period when the Mediterranean was safe for tankers and when our Allied tanker fleet was dangerously inadequate."

Army Will Need 75,000 Men a Month After Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Army will need about 75,000 men a month after the first of the year as replacements to keep its total strength at 7,700,000, Secretary of War Stimson said today.

Asked at a press conference about a report by Senator Downey (D-Calif.) that the Army plans to call up a million more men than the 7,700,000 level, Stimson replied that there has been no change in the Army's program since the figure was fixed by Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNary, deputy chief of staff.

The Army enrollment stood at about 7,300,000 on Sept. 1 and to bring it up to the planned total by Dec. 31 Stimson estimated that 400,000 men plus 300,000 replacements would be needed.

There have been charges that the British have been hoarding their oil resources, thus making it necessary for the United States to draw inordinately upon its reserves," he said.

"The truth is that American and British oil resources have been employed jointly from the beginning of hostilities. It is true that the use of Middle Eastern oil was restricted somewhat during the period when the Mediterranean was safe for tankers and when our Allied tanker fleet was dangerously inadequate."

WASPS Enjoy Flying Big Fortresses At Columbus Air Base

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22—Seventeen women who "still can't believe it's true" are wheeling great Flying Fortresses over central Ohio today, getting ready to handle heavy stuff for the Army's Ferry command. They arrived at Lockbourne air base this week and plunged immediately into an intensive nine weeks' training program that will include everything from piloting the heavy bombers to fixing a spark-plug. Elizabeth Helen Dettweiler of Washington, one of the nation's top-flight feminine golf players of recent years, summed it all up in one short exclamation: "Winning a golf championship has no thrill like lifting one of these bombers off the ground." She reached out and patted the side of a Fortress, Miss Dettweiler, now 28, won the Women's Western Open back in 1939. The 17 members of the Women's Airforce Service Pilots (WASPS) are the first women to be taught how to handle to big ships. They came here from Sweetwater, Tex., where they completed a five and one-half months course at the Ferry command's training field. Each woman had air experience before entering Sweetwater. All are civilian employees of the Army, but maintain a military standard of living and training. They spent yesterday in class rooms, studying motors; last night they flew, acting first as co-pilots, then lifting the great ships themselves. "It takes everything you've got to lift one of these heavies," remarked Peg Kirchner, 23, of Youngstown, O. Also in the course is Eugenie Garvin of Payne, O.

"Hitler came to power through the miracle of the law of human nature of the great laws of human nature which produces power, he taught the German people to have and build a theory of armed forces to wield that hat. CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Afterwards I thought it odd that Nancy hadn't suggested sending the waffle iron to Rockledge. Mrs. Knowlton was Pete's aunt. Even if I thought her an odd old woman and a bit feeble, surely she would rise to an emergency like this.

But Nancy didn't offer any suggestions. Suddenly she wasn't efficient. She wasn't exactly Nancy. She watched and Dotty into their little room. She kissed them good-by and said: "Go with Hilda."

When I came back from the kitchen where I had taken the waffle iron to meet Hilda and go to bed, I found Nancy waiting for me in the kitchen.

"I can't seem to get organized," she said, "or to figure how to face a waffle iron. Do you think I'd better send for Greg?"

I didn't think that at all. "Jack will tell you what to do," I assured her. "You know, he's a lawyer."

Looking up at that nightmare morning, my answer seems odd because I didn't know about the waffle iron then, nor about the waffle iron. There was nothing to warn me that I'd have to spend the next week evading and doubling on my mental tracks, and checking my words carefully before I spoke them.

Nancy was drinking hot milk obediently when the police arrived. Drinking in silence she had broken only once with odd, dangerous words I knew she should never have spoken.

"I didn't think Pete still had it in his power to hurt me," she had said almost sullenly. "I thought he'd done all he could. I see I was wrong."

"Careful, Nancy," I warned. "Jack doesn't think it was suicide."

"Who?" Then she had laughed. A terrible, hysterical laugh. "Well, he did have a gift for making enemies of all the men he knew."

"Nancy—don't!" I had begged.

Then Jack Drummond came in. Chief of Police Calvin was with him. The chief had a waffle iron in his hand. And Jack's face was white.

"How do you do, ladies?" the chief said gruffly. "I'd heard the plump, sleek, elderly man called a terror to evildoers. His smooth, grizzled face with its heavy, grizzled eyebrows lowered at me and made me feel guilty."

"Good morning, chief," responded Nancy.

The chief went on: "I am very sorry to disturb you so soon after this—tragedy, madam."

Nancy sighed: "Have you anything to tell me—or to ask me?"

"I've some evidence to show you," the chief replied.

"Are you bringing my husband into the house?"

"We're waiting for the ambulance," Jack said. "The medical officer can't make a real examination here."

Chief Calvin remarked: "There is a certain amount of ground to cover first. Routine. The medical examiner wants to make a thorough examination."

"Not an autopsy," Nancy said. "I won't agree to that."

"There may not be any need of that. Let's hope not." The chief of police was very polite. But I saw something in that smooth, poker face of his—something I didn't like.

He turned and fixed me with opaque brown eyes. His glistened like lacquer. His gray hair was smooth and shiny as if it too were lacquered.

"You're Miss Hilda Glenn, aren't you?" he asked.

"Yes."

"We'll come to you later."

"Now, Mrs. Everard, can you identify this?"

"It's a waffle iron. Ours, I think. But I'd have to look in the kitchen to make sure ours is gone."

Then she gasped. The waffle iron was darkly stained.

"Is that how he was—killed?" she whispered.

"Your guess is as good as mine," the chief said. "We haven't the medical report yet."

Jack spoke then—quickly and almost harshly. "Nancy, why do you take it for granted this may be your waffle iron? There was a warning in his next words. 'Aren't they all pretty much alike?'"

"Most of them are round," Nancy said. "Ours is a new one. It's square. The one in Chief Calvin's hand is new and square."

"Your husband was stunned—killed perhaps—by a blow from that iron," the chief observed.

Nancy clasped her hands together. Strong, capable hands. The knuckles showed white.

"Why do you say he was killed? Poor Pete! Are you sure he was murdered—sure it wasn't suicide?"

"We are sure," the chief said.

"Did he struggle? Did he suffer?" The words were no more than a breath. I was certain then that she didn't know any more about Pete's murder than I did.

But as Lawyer Jack Drummond answered her I was oddly uncertain about his convictions.

"The blow from that waffle iron did it," he told Nancy grimly. "He may have been dead when he was dragged into his car and the motor turned on. But even if alive then, he never revived."

Nancy swayed and sat down.

"Who could have stolen your waffle iron?" the chief asked.

I wondered then if I ought to say: Maybe Pete took it with him when he left the house to go to Pam Drury's.

"But I didn't speak. Some instinct made me realize that anything I said now would involve Greg with explanations it might be difficult to make to the inquisitorial chief of police."

Then the chief added: "Who could have broken into your house?"

"The house wasn't broken into," Nancy answered quietly. "When I got home shortly after one, everything was normal. I came out to the kitchen for ice water; the door was closed."

"Nancy, don't say any more! Not till you've seen your lawyer," I interjected.

Jack scowled at me.

Nancy said: "Jack's my lawyer, if I need one."

"But, I'm on the other side," Jack said and scowled at me again. "Don't forget I'm State's Attorney for Wayne County. And you should be—and are herewith—warned that anything you say may be used against you."

"The prosecuting attorney," Nancy's voice was very low. And then: "I'll answer any questions."

"Where were you at six o'clock last night, madam?" the chief of police asked after a pause.

"Here. In this kitchen. Fixing supper for my babies."

"And at six-fifteen?"

Nancy hesitated. The chief repeated it. Louder this time. "And at six-fifteen?"

"Upstairs. In the nursery putting Dotty and Dicky to bed. I got to Pam Drury's just before seven. Didn't I, Hilda?"

"I'm asking the questions," the chief said. He held out a handkerchief in which a wrist watch was carefully wrapped. The watch was battered and broken, the crystal splintered and almost pulverized over the face. The hands marked six-fifteen.

"We found that watch on Pete's wrist," Jack Drummond said. "It must have stopped when—Pete went out."

"He was probably attacked at six-fifteen," Chief Calvin said. "We found this waffle iron under the car. It fits the wound on his forehead; but there's another on his chin. Looks as if the killer struck him and then got the waffle iron to finish him. The exhaust of his car was on, too. Mrs. Everard, can you figure who hated your husband enough to go for him like that?"

"No."

"Didn't you hear anything unusual at six-fifteen last night? No sounds of a fight?"

"No—nothing."

"Which way does the nursery face?"

"It faces the garage."

"Yet you heard nothing?"

"Nothing at all."

"Was there anyone, else in the house yesterday afternoon besides you and your husband?"

Nancy moistened her lips before answering. "My husband's aunt, Mrs. Knowlton, was here when I came home at about half-past five. She left a little before six. My husband drove her home."

"What time did he return?"

"I don't know. I didn't see him."

Her voice was only a thread of sound. "I've never seen him since—nor spoken to him."

"You quarreled before he left the house, didn't you?" the chief asked inexorably.

"Cut it out, Lex," Jack Drummond said. "She can't stand any more. She ought to have legal advice."

"I can answer," Nancy said. "Yes, Chief, we quarreled."

"Nancy!" I protested. "Don't say anything more. You don't know what you're saying."

"I'm afraid she does," Jack growled.

I was certain then that he believed Nancy had killed Pete and I wondered what State's Attorney Drummond would do if she were brought to trial. Since this was the first time I'd had any dealings with the criminal law, I had no idea that Jack could disqualify himself from the horror of prosecuting Nancy if she were tried for murder.

For a minute I wondered why Nancy didn't protest her innocence, why she didn't make more effort to prove it. Then suddenly I felt certain that Nancy had killed Pete and I wondered what State's Attorney Drummond would do if she were brought to trial. Since this was the first time I'd had any dealings with the criminal law, I had no idea that Jack could disqualify himself from the horror of prosecuting Nancy if she were tried for murder.

"I took my own hand off the polished mahogany rail with the banal feeling that I must be dreaming or writing a script. If Pete were actually dead—murdered—Nancy couldn't be mounting the treads of the stairway on legs that did not falter."

Perhaps she killed him and it wasn't Greg after all. Perhaps she knows Greg did it!

Nancy cut in on my jangling thoughts. "Here we are, Hilda. It's a long time since you've been in my room. Isn't it? Come in."

Her noise was unbelievable. The room was unbelievable too. It had not changed at all in ten years.

It was done in the red and white colonial wallpaper which Nancy had chosen when all the other girls were going in for blue or rose. Red and white toile de Jouy draped the windows.

Here in the room Pete must sometimes have shared with his wife, everything was just as it had been when she was Nancy Mason and the tain that Nancy and I were afraid of the same thing. We both thought we knew who had killed Pete and why.

"Miss Glenn," the chief said, "Will you help Mrs. Everard up to her room? I think she should lie down and rest. I'm afraid I've put her through a bad ordeal."

"I would like to lie down," Nancy murmured. "I'm just beginning to realize what this means."

"Miss Glenn, when you come downstairs again I'd like to have a little talk with you," the chief said.

Careful, Hilda! I warned myself. Jack Drummond can't protect the person he loves. But you can protect Greg.

The chief of police had asked me to help Nancy to her room but she walked up the stairs ahead of me, without even a hand on the bannister.

I took my own hand off the polished mahogany rail with the banal feeling that I must be dreaming or writing a script. If Pete were actually dead—murdered—Nancy couldn't be mounting the treads of the stairway on legs that did not falter."

Buckeyes Again Underdogs In Northwestern Clash Saturday

WILDCATS HOLD EDGE OVER CSU

35,000 Fans Expected To Witness Game at Columbus Saturday

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—A bit more game-wise, but just as young and lacking in weight as before they absorbed three defeats in four outings, Ohio State's footballers meet Northwestern's Willy Wildcats Saturday in their usual role of underdogs.

Despite the poor record of the Buckeye-little Rio Grande is just as good—some 35,000 fans are expected to half-fill the Ohio stadium for the fray. Good weather may boost the attendance to 40,000. Director of Ticket Sales Henry Taylor believes.

The power-packed Wildcats are favored heavily over the Bucks, but there were no takers that the Ohioans wouldn't score. Despite the lack of talent possessed by the Buckeye boys, no team has been able to whitewash 'em this season. In fact, not one of Coach Paul Brown's Ohio State teams has been blanked in two and a half years.

Brown's boys went through a refresher course on their offense and defense yesterday afternoon. A short signal drill today also was on tap, but it was only a warm-up.

Bucks Take It Easy

The Bucks have had no contact work at all this week, Brown refusing to risk further injuries to the squad. Guard Bill Hackett and Tackle Ray Stackhouse, who had been sidelined with colds, were back in harness yesterday, as were Dean Senebauberger, ball-carrying ace from Uhrichville, and Matthew Brown, Canton quarterback, who were injured in games. All four are expected to see plenty of service against Northwestern.

Two Northwesterners, Halfback Vic Schwall and Reserve Fullback Jack Morley, will make their final appearances as Wildcats Saturday. They have been ordered to report to Eastern university next week for pre-flight training.

After the Bucks get through with the Wildcats—or vice versa—the Ohioans meet the three civilian squads of Indiana, Pittsburgh and Illinois before tangling in the finale with Navy-nucleus Michigan.

Brown will welcome the Indiana-Pittsburgh-Tulane even-alephs breathing spell, for as the office were has it, "he's getting tired of playing these All-Tar squads—and Brown doesn't like."

Game time is 2 p. m. (CWT).

BOXERS IN ARMED FORCES STILL TOPS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Fighting men of the ring now in the armed forces continue to dominate the picture in the National Boxing association's quarterly ratings.

Four NBA champions in the major weight classifications are in uniform. They include Heavyweight Joe Louis, Light Heavyweight Gus Lesnevich, Middleweight Tony Zale and Walterweight Freddie Coghane. NBA has frozen the titles of men in uniform and has refused to recognize so-called "duration champions."

NBA listed the lightweight title as vacant, but ruled that the winner of the forthcoming bout between Sammy Angott and Slugger White in Los Angeles would be recognized as the world champion. President Abe J. Greene said the victor would be requested to defend the title within three months against Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, the "logical contender."

Change Miami Game

OXFORD, Oct. 22.—Miami university's football will play Arkansas A. and M. at Memphis, Tenn., Saturday, Oct. 30, instead of the Naval air technical training center, the substitution being caused by cancellation of all NATTC games.

Hank Edwards Inducted

TOLEDO, Oct. 22.—The Army has accepted Henry (Hank) Edwards, Cleveland Indians' outfielder, for service beginning in three weeks.

Buffalo Bill was said to have killed 4,280 buffaloes in 18 months.

Nazis Make Poor Cotton Pickers, Owners Declare

ALEXANDRIA, La. — The Nazi supermen apparently "can't cut the mustard" in a Louisiana cotton patch.

After 50 prisoners of war started picking cotton at the Gordon Randolph and Webster Thompson plantations near here one plantation owner said:

"We are glad to get our cotton picked but some different arrangement must be made in regard to payment of wages. We pay the prisoners $1.50 a day but on one plantation they averaged only 60 pounds of cotton a day, on the other 63 pounds. As 1,500 pounds of seed cotton is required for a bale, this makes picking cost $37.50 a bale.

Southern cotton pickers working for $1.25 a hundred pounds usually pick between 300 and 400 pounds a day.

Soybeans are an important crop in Manchuria, where 150,000,000 bushels are produced annually.

About one-quarter of all United Nations tonnage is in Liberty ships.
